HCM Designed With People in Mind

As the future of work continues to shift, one thing remains constant: that HCM is an area of business that will always evolve.

Why? Well, because we as people—and the world around us—are always changing.

There's a lot happening right now. Employees increasingly want more purpose and culture from their employers, HR managers must be more "forward-looking," how we collaborate and our physical workspace are different, and regulations and compliance requirements are constantly changing.

But what it all comes down to is this: your employees are the heart of your organization, and their satisfaction affects productivity and customer satisfaction.

You need people-first technology that provides a positive employee experience and reflects the culture and values of your organization. And a technology partner that will evolve along with all of you as your needs change over time.

Culture and values are the top factors (22%) in overall employee satisfaction.[1]

46% of organizations believe that a lack of company culture is the biggest barrier to digital transformation.[2]

71% of companies say that governing changes around workforce strategies are important to their success over the next year and a half. But only 8% are actually prepared to adopt the changes.[3]
